Exciting Finishes for Laurel Crowd

Chevy Chase Steeplechase Proves Exciting, Black Bridge Winning Handily Over The Welkin.
Last Race Won by a Neck.

By GEORGE B. MORRIS.

Laurel, Md., Oct. 14.—Exciting finishes among an evenly balanced field was the amusement furnished for the big Saturday crowd at Laurel today.

The feature event on the programme was the Chevy Chase Steeplechase, with a cash value of $1,500, ridden by gentlemen jockeys. The winner turned up in the consistent Black Bridge, who beat The Welkin by four lengths. The race was as pretty as has ever been seen in this section. Neck and neck The Welkin and Black Bridge raced until the last jump, where F. P. Robb's Black Bridge drew away and won handily. Numerator was third. Mr. Black on Black Bridge rode a well-judged race, and demonstrated himself to be a high-class gentleman jockey. The Welkin ruled an odd-on favorite. Three to five was his closing price. Black Bridge was 5 to 3, and Numerator 10 to 1.

The novelty race between man, auto, motorcycle and horse was run in the fast time of 1:39 for 400 yards by man first and second, and horse third.

The books, as usual, laid liberal odds, and the public, who were well represented, had a hot tip demonstrated his superiority over a good field and won in a kilop.

Kaufman won the fifth race in easy fashion with 7 to 5 against the odds. To-day's crowd was the largest of the meet, fully 12,000 persons being in attendance. The track was lightning fast. Every available stall at the track is occupied and many horses racing at Laurel are being shipped daily to Laurel.

To-day's card was the classiest that has yet been offered. The race between Michael Angelo and The Welkin in the last event was a Henry of Nature race. Neck to neck from the quarter pole they scrambled, until well into the stretch, where Michael Angelo weakened, and the winner of three races this week, the Weiss-proved beyond question that he is one of the best selling stallions at the track.

Jockey Eymore, who was injured yesterday by being crowded through the fence, is reported to be much improved.
